EASTERN DATES TO AUGUST 23

THE WAR IN EUROPE!

German Losses in Recent Battles said to be Appalling!

BAZAINE FORCES HIS WAY OUT OF METZ!

ANOTHER BATTLE IMPENDING!

Contradictory Reports regarding the Movements of the Crown Prince

Terrible Losses on the Part of the Prussians

New York, August 23.—A private cable dispatch dated London, August 23d 12 M says that special Paris dispatches say the armies of King William and Steinmetz are reported as being so severely crippled to resume the offensive, and it is given out on high authority that Bazaine was reinforced from Chalons on Sunday for the purpose of giving battle to the enemy near Metz. He is confident of victory when he will march on the army of the Crown Prince and rescue Paris.

A report has reached London of a French victory.

Another special from Paris says Bazaine was at Metz. He has the north and center entirely open to him either to retreat or to receive reinforcements.

The appalling Prussian losses have sent a thrill of horror throughout Germany and recruits are only to be had from among the country people and working men, nearly all of whom are raw. Bazaine professes to be master of the situation.

Herbert Bismarck, one of the sons of the Prussian Prime Minister, is wounded in the foot, and his brother William had his horse killed under him.

A French Manifesto

Prussia has inundated our country with spies. We have been compelled as a measure of safety to expel all suspected Germans at the risk of injuring some innocent persons. At Alsace and Lorraine the necessities of the Prussians and the exorbitant demand of commissaries have exasperated an unhappy people who, plundered, abused and harrassed, have inaugurated guerrilla war against the invaders. Moreover, King William has launched a proclamation declaring every individual not belonging to the French army or taken in open hostility to the Prussians, shall be shot. A rising of the people en masse will bring a day of justice for all these insults and injuries.

[The above dispatch comes without date or signature. It probably emanates from the French Ministry.—Ed. Oregonian.]

Bazaine Forces his Way Out

London, Aug 23.—Bazaine has forced a passage by way of Antoin and Longmon, reaching Montmedy. It is reported that the armies of the Royal Prince and Prince Frederick Charles have formed a junction to the westward of Metz.

Dispatch from Antwerp—Interposition of the Great Powers Talked Of Antwerp, Aug 23.—The war has paralyzed all business here. No failures have been announced, nor any anticipated. Here as everywhere, the only hope of the resumption of commercial activity is based on a speedy triumph of the Prussians. It is almost certain interposition of the Great Powers of Europe in the Franco-Prussian question will take place within a few days.

Dispatches from Paris

Paris, August 23.—Journals continue to urge a levy en masse to exterminate the invaders.

The French gunboats now operating on the Rhine have been recalled to the Seine.

The Opinion Nationale, under the caption of Keep Cool, predicts the defeat of the Prussians.

The Emperor's headquarters are now at Rheims. McMahon's at Corcelle.

The Post is authorized to deny the authenticity of the letter published yesterday said to have been written by Queen Victoria to the Empress.

The prize promised by the ... for the capture of the first French gun has been awarded to a Sergeant of the Fifth Rifles.

A letter from Paris says the French peasants are so fanatical as to poison wells ...

A correspondent of the Daily News says that in the battle of the 15th, the French were flung back on St Quentin.

Nouville, Flaveguay, Raisonville and the villages in the neighborhood of Metz where battles of the past ten days have occurred have been nearly destroyed.

A Prussian Frigate Captured

London, August 23.—The following dispatch is received from Alexandria. The Prussian frigate Hertha carrying 25 guns, was captured by the French. No particulars.

Dispatches from London

London, August 22.—Advices from the seat of war show that the Germans are trying to surround Bazaine and prevent reinforcements from joining him.

The rumor from Luxemburg that the French had occupied Verdun is contradicted.

The Daily News copies with approval the Economist's article concerning the Queen's perpetual absence from the seat of Government even in a crisis like the present. The News further urges Premier Gladstone instead of losing valuable time vibrating at the Queen's pleasure between the extremities of the island to at once made Regent with power to perform duties which she so persistently deserts though paid so enormously to perform.

New York, Aug 23.—A cable special to the Herald dated London Aug 23, says a dispatch from France announces that M. Ollivier is attacked with brain fever. His life is despaired of.

A special to the Herald from London says its Paris dispatches from Paris state that alarming demonstrations took place Saturday on the occasion of the report that Bazaine had been defeated.

The report that the Crown Prince of Prussia was before Chalons is contradicted. It is believed that he is now on the way to Paris.

The Emperor Still in the Field

Paris, Aug 23.—The Journal ... contradicts the reported illness of the Emperor and says he will command the Imperial Guards in the next great battle.

A Canard

Chicago, Aug 22.—The ... New York special says the ... dispatch purporting to have been received by a French ... here announcing that King William, with his staff and General Sheridan was captured by the French is a canard gotten up for speculative purposes. No confidence is felt in the report by any one.

Bazaine's Whereabouts

Paris, Aug 22.—La Liberte reports that Bazaine has succeeded in reaching the railway from Mezieres to Montmedy and has procured all needed provision.

The Crown Prince Marching on Paris

London, Aug 23.—A special says the Crown Prince is believed to be marching on Paris. It is reported that McMahon and Canrobert are moving upon the road taken by him. His army is estimated at ... 000. The French Marshals are supplied ... have an equal number of troops on his flank ... believed ... great ... fortune ... his advance ... short of Paris.

Latest Reports—Perilous Situation of the Crown Prince

... August ... The ... has the following ... New York ... Tribune dispatches received from Paris say that McMahon with the French army lately at Chalons ... turned the tables on the Crown Prince. The Prussian army had through movements ... would be between the French ... from the ... McMahon ... Verdun was a certain ... Bazaine's flank ... the Crown Prince ... Report of Prussian Victory Denied

New York, August 23.—A special Paris dispatch to the Times ... says the pretended victory of the Prussians at Thionville on the ... is little credence there ... notwithstanding the dispatch of King William. It is believed that a ... going well with the French army. We have from good authority the following information: The series of battles which concluded Thursday ... resulted ... giving the Prussians ... of the roads to Verdun which ... communication by the north will ... remains open Friday afternoon and ... Saturday morning the main body of ... command succeeded in effecting their withdrawal from Metz by the gate of Thionville between Fort St Quentin and Moulnets. The railroad connecting Thionville with the Fortress of Sedan and Mezieres, from which latter point it proceeds due south to Rheims, was still intact by last accounts.

Bazaine is reported at Spincourt near Montmedy, a town on the river Cheere, 5 miles north of Verdun and 60 miles northeast of Metz. It is presumed his intention was to cross Argonnes by Stenay to Vouziers, thence down the valley of Aisne to St. Menehould, where a junction could be effected with McMahon.

A special to the Times says Menehould is ... miles north of Vitry le Francaise and ... miles north of Chalons. The three places form a triangle, of which Chalons is the apex.

At Menehould a great battle will probably be fought. It is thought McMahon is now on his way to join Bazaine at this point. The French position covers all the railroad lines and secures retreat to Paris in case of defeat.

CURRENT NOTES.

The murder of Mr Nathan in New York has created more excitement and interest than has any crime committed since the mysterious Burdell murder.

The New York Tablet (Roman Catholic organ) is of the opinion that in the war now raging in Europe every Catholic must sympathize and take part with France, the first of Catholic nations.

Three States will be largely affected in the Fall campaign by the negro vote. Delaware, it is calculated, will be turned over to the Republicans; several Congressional districts in Maryland may be reversed, and the New Jersey Republican vote will be augmented by 5,000.

The new Archbishop of Alaska recently appointed by the Emperor of Russia is 32 years old and has been eight years in orders. He is highly spoken of for learning and character. It is not yet settled whether his residence will be in New York, San Francisco or Alaska, his diocese including the whole of the United States.

An Iowa John lately courted and engaged to marry a young girl who, in a miff at some neglect on John's part, revenged herself by marrying Isaac, John's father. John countered by marrying the mother of his recent betrothed—John becoming the step father of his own step mother while Isaac's wife was compelled to become the daughter in law of her step son, and thus John became his own grandfather by brevet.

Mr Thomas Ewing, in a letter on the Mississippi river, develops an interesting theory of the tendency of rivers running southward to abrade their western banks, and attributes it to the constantly increasing centrifugal force imparted to the water as it proceeds to the south. He enforces this explanation by pointing to the fact that ships sailing southward must correct a westward tendency in all things moving northward.

It appears that the shipping interests of the United States have received a fresh impetus from the effects of the European war. The names of American vessels are now found in considerable numbers on the daily lists of New York clearances for European ports. The increase of the number of our vessels on the clearance lists is attributable to the withdrawal of the North German boats and the consequent advance in the price of freights.

It is stated that $100,000 has been subscribed by three wealthy Hebrew merchants to punish the editors and reporters of the New York Sunday Mercury who worked up the sensation openly accusing young Nathan with having murdered his father. It is also said that Washington Nathan, acting under the advice of his uncle Judge Cardozo, will immediately after the seven days mourning are over cause the arrest of the persons who wrote the article and bring civil suit for $500,000 damages against the proprietors of the paper.

Within the past five years the farmers of Northern Illinois have gone quite largely into the making of cheese on the factory plan. There are now in the County of Kane alone about twenty three factories having a capital of $500,000, and using the milk of 8,000 cows. They will produce this season nearly 4,000,000 pounds ... There is quite a number of these institutions in all the northern counties and since they have gone into operation the character of western cheese has been greatly improved. The effect has been, however, to enhance the price of butter and to encroach upon our supply of milk, as a large portion of that used for city consumption came from Kane county.

POLITICAL NOTES

New York Democrats are attacking the census. It is exposing the rascality of their fraudulent vote in New York City, hence their laughter ... bowings.

In Cincinnati they have an organized Young Democracy, the designs and purpose of which greatly trouble the Democratic Enquirer. It is intended to be a progressive organization.

The Brooklyn Eagle, the leading Democratic journal in Brooklyn, while doubting the correctness to which Real's charges against Tammany lead, believes that his views are based on reason. It says: "It is perhaps possible—and this alone forms any extenuation for Real's last card—that if Real had been of another stripe of politics he would have escaped the gallows. Donahue the ... voter of ... was elected a member of the ... in New York, and was a welcome associate of the club of boss politicians ... the crime of which he ... was committed. Had he been in Real's place or had Real possessed Donahue's fortunate associations, he might have escaped the gallows."

At last says the New York Tribune, we have the census return for the Fifteenth Election District of the Fifth Ward. We called attention soon after the May election to the enormous vote given in this district, under the management of the Tammany Ring. The vote was: Republican 1, Democratic 1,003; total 1,004. Now comes the census and the entire district shows 1,101 people, one half are women and girls, half the male population are under age and a quarter of the ... are aliens. There may ... legal voters in the district, certainly not 500 by any rational theory; yet it gave under the liberal management of Senator ... more votes than it had male residents ... We are waiting for two or three other districts that show similar returns, especially one in the Sixth Ward. That facts will prove a fraudulent increase of vote by the Democracy quite enough to carry the State and secure the Court of Appeals we have no shadow of doubt. Nor do we doubt that they would have counted up 30,000 more in this city if it had been necessary to accomplish their purpose. What do honest voters think of over a thousand votes in a population of only seventeen hundred?

The French ... that in recent engagement near Metz the execution done by their mitrailleurs was frightful. Bazaine masked several of them, and utterly annihilated two regiments of Prussian Guards who came within range.

A Paris dispatch says: News received from the various Departments shows that the people are determinedly warlike. The public depression occasioned by the recent reverses is giving way to facts and a desire to drive the Prussians from French soil.

The Paris ... of the 15th says the report that the Prussians demanded an armistice is fully contradicted ... Paris ... for that according ... must bury the dead and the army continue the work of annihilating the enemy.

The phrase in Napoleon's dispatch to the Empress about their son which was rendered in English "The soldiers wept at his tranquility" appears thus in the original: "Sa calme a profondement ..."—his calmness has profoundly affected (or impressed) the soldiers."

There is immense activity at the Paris defenses. Laborers are absolutely swarming on the fortifications. It is hinted that the measures of strengthening the works are due more to the wish to keep the dangerous class busy than to actual fear. The garrison is making cartridges night and day.

On the 18th M. Thiers told the Corps Legislatif that the enemy must be resisted at all cost to the last. He advised prompt action, the surrounding population should be obliged to bring their cattle crops and food within the walls and the entire suburbs of Paris should be laid waste. If necessary M. Dumont the Minister of Commerce, and the Government were ready to guarantee them protection, shelter and subsistence.

Gen Trochu on being appointed Commander in Chief of all the forces at Paris, issued a proclamation counselling order not only in the streets but under the trial consequent upon the situation. He says France must have the demeanor of a great nation conducting its own destiny, and the Government will gain confidence in them. He appeals to all men and to all parties. He belongs himself to no party save that of his country and declares that all good citizens must by moral restraint keep down those who seek an opportunity in the public misfortunes to satisfy their detestable designs.

A Paris dispatch of the 18th gives this official dispatches from Marshal Bazaine just received claims a great victory over Prince Frederick Charles and General Steinmetz between Thionville and Thionville. The investment of Strasbourg is so slack that the French troops have entered and reinforced the garrison. Provisions have also been carried there without an attempt at capture. A paymaster of the French army left there with a large amount of treasure without any hinderance. It would seem that as the Prussians have no siege trains, they have given up the idea of a regular siege.

The Paris Liberte of the 18th says: The army under Marshal Bazaine resting upon one of the strongest places in the world, occupied near Metz a position which enabled it to check the enemy ... The Prussians decided to turn Metz but Bazaine knew their intention, and crossed the Moselle in several places at the same ... He was not surprised as has been said; he knew he could meet the enemy and he was prepared by crossing the Moselle the French tended to fall back on Chalons but the Prussians endeavored to cut the French line four times. They attacked and were repulsed with great loss.

A New York paper of the 18th has the following from London: A special dispatch from Berlin states that another attempt has been made for peace between France and Prussia. The ... messenger arrived at Berlin yesterday with proposals of peace from the English Cabinet. The Emperor of the French has expressed his readiness to treat for peace and proposals were made through Lord Lyons to the King of Prussia and Count Bismarck who was telegraphed to at headquarters. The King replied that if Napoleon wished for peace he must ask for an armistice in the usual way. The issue must be decided either by arbitration or war.

The following order was recently issued by Marshal McMahon: "Soldiers: In the battle of the 6th of August fortune betrayed your courage, but you yielded your position only after a heroic resistance which lasted not less than nine hours. You were ... against 130,000, and were overwhelmed by force of numbers. Under these conditions defeat is glorious and history will say that in the battle of Froschweiler the French showed the greatest valor. You have suffered heavy losses but those of the enemy are much greater. Although you have not been successful you see a cause to your misfortune, which makes the Emperor satisfied with you, and the entire country recognizes that you have worthily sustained the honor of the flag. Let us show that though subjected to the severest tests the First Corps ... forgetting the ... closes up its ranks."

A Tribune correspondent writes from the seat of war: As we neared Worth there was a constant stream of wagons bringing down wounded men—Prussians and Bavarians, Turcos and Frenchmen ... the ... of the road in ... It was ... to ... very ... though the poor fellows ... pain. They were a sallow ... ght ... blood stained band ... ages ... on the hillside. Worth itself was more hospitable and all the inhabitants were either nursing the wounded or burying the dead. It was an evil fate for the picturesque little place that more than 100,000 on one side and the other should have settled their quarrel so near at hand. Of coming movements I must not say a word. The event of yesterday was the capture of the little fortress of Leuschlenburg where a large amount of military stores are reported to have been captured. The ... this ... heavy ... the ... and we heard their guns booming all yesterday forenoon.

On the 16th the Figaro of Paris published an article full of confidence and resolution. The following is an extract and a fair exhibit of the tone of the French press: Everything progresses well. The enemy makes haste to finish his work. He knows full well that the prolongation of war exhausts his force and augments ours. His tactics alone show that we have only to gain time to divert the Prussians from his base of operations while defending our ground inch by inch. The passage of arms yesterday under the guns of Metz is the first act of a new drama in which the first operations of the invaders will have given way to disorder and exhaustion. Our fortified towns all ... Bitsche, Phalsburg, Verdun are all defended by the army and the inhabitants answer with their guns to the arrogant demands of the enemy. The national defence commences. It but just commences and every Frenchman is ready to answer the call of his country. So with your National Garde and Garde Mobile and volunteers who also ... way to the Vosges Mountains. There ... the Prussians find their graves. They have a ... of a war of races and such they shall have.

Oregon at a Disadvantage

I admitted ... that the ... great want of our State ... to our population ... producing classes ... the country ... wealth ... setting forth the ... of Oregon ... attracting population here. In this ... not far surpassed ... that State to ... Information regarding California ... sources is publish... The cars are filled with pamphlets ... and gazettes all prepared with ... impressing the traveler who ... westward with the advantages and attractions of California. Not only is general information given but specific descriptions of different localities are furnished. Merchants ... men land associations and boards of immigration all work in the same general direction. All exert themselves to disseminate intelligence in regard to the State. It is money well expended. Business men who contribute money for the object act on business principles, knowing that they put their money in as a legitimate business investment. It all comes back in the increase of trade and the development of the country. A gentleman of Oregon who has been for some time in California on business states to us that he was deeply impressed with the extent and thoroughness of the efforts that are being made there to bring immigrants in and settle them. The board of immigration at San Francisco furnishes publications to an immense amount, to be scattered throughout the Eastern States and distributed on all trains bound westward. An agent is appointed and paid to see to the distribution of these publications on the cars. The railroad company (the Central Pacific) lends its assistance. Each month it distributes sixty thousand copies of different publications relative to California. Merchants who send out agents send them provided in a way to assist in the same general object. The consequence of all this effort is that people coming westward hear all about California, and many of them by the time they arrive, have made up their minds where to go and what to do.

Now an effort something like this is wanted in behalf of Oregon. People from the East come into California and hear nothing about our State. Or if they chance to hear anything it is generally a disparaging word. Californians as we all know do not trouble themselves to say anything in favor of Oregon. There is no means by which the attention of the great mass of those coming westward to look for homes is drawn in this direction. Hence Oregon is at a disadvantage. But much might be done to obviate this disadvantage and draw attention hither. Probably no other method would be so effective as the publication of documents and their distribution in large numbers on the cars of the Union and Central Pacific railroads. If our board of immigration is not able to provide for this, it should have such help as will enable it to do so. It would be wise to take hold of this matter at once. If the subject were duly considered by business men here they certainly would concede the importance of it. The board of immigration should receive such assistance as will enable it to widen its field of operations. It is doing now a great deal for the State, but could do infinitely more, if more resources were at its disposal.

Chinamen, Democracy and Common Sense

The New York World, the organ of the sensible and intelligent portion of the Democratic party takes a very different view of the Chinese question from that presented by those organs that minister to the lowest prejudices of the substratum element of the Democracy. It says that the probable amount of Chinese immigration is "extravagantly overestimated." Besides "even if large numbers of coolie laborers should be introduced, they would cause only a temporary disturbance in the level of wages." The subject is discussed further by the World in this way: "While they remain strangers in the country, while they are unacquainted with with our language and more especially while the contracts under which they are brought here have not run out, they will work for a small compensation. But when they come to understand the country and are at liberty to make new engagements, they will not give their services for four dollars a week, when other laborers are receiving twelve and eighteen dollars for the same kind of work. If they were gardeners cultivating small patches of land, they would ask the current price for their cabbages and asparagus and they have enough of human greed to demand all the wages they have any chance of getting. Our German, Irish and Swedish immigrants do not accept the low wages which prevail in their own countries after they have been in this country long enough to know that they can get more and the Chinese may be relied on to demand all that anybody will be willing to pay them."

Let the reader decide for himself if this be not a much more sensible view of the case than that presented by those journals which are continually declaring that the Chinese are going to take America. The World evidently thinks there is too little sense in this outcry to make an "issue" even for the Democratic party.

Senator Sprague makes the assertion that negro voting in Rhode Island will so disgust radicals that at the next election the Democrats will carry the State.

The Mountain Dem... at a paper published at La Grande gives the valuable piece of information: One of two things is true, viz: Either Senator Sprague never made this assertion, or if he did make it he is not well informed as to the politics of his State inasmuch as "negro voting" has always been the rule in Rhode Island. It is no new thing for people to become disgusted with.

The San Francisco Examiner (Democratic organ) declares that the politician who can spend hundreds of dollars for whiskey in a political campaign can afford to pay two bits a week for the maintenance of that bed rock sheet; therefore it declares that it will support no candidate for office unless his name has been at least six months on its subscription books prior to his nomination. High and lofty principles.

An effort is making in California to carry wheat and flour direct to New York by railroad. The expediency and profit of the undertaking will be tested at once. Three cars have been loaded with flour at Marysville and seven with wheat at Chico. The rates of freight are not made public ... the enterprise ... the shippers and the railroad company.

The War News

... fighting of the war began has ... the French people ... the ... still ... full of courage ... determined ... the first Napoleon ... the Germans ... noticeable that there is a tone of greater confidence in the dispatches from French sources than there was a week ago. Bazaine has extricated himself ... junction with MacMahon ... the great advantages they have gained.

Iowa papers publish correspondence that has taken place between parties in that State and President Grant relative to the enforcement of the authority of the United States Courts in collecting the railroad bond tax ... several counties. The President is informed that it was reported ... the people that he had said he would not aid officers ... the tax if forcibly resisted and that the report encouraged the ... disposed. As might be expected, the President replies denying any such statement. He says: "I would hardly invite a community to resist laws which I am sworn to execute, and if it becomes my duty to use force to execute the laws I ... any other State I shall do so without hesitation."

On the 16th inst the Maine Democratic Convention assembled at Bangor and nominated Charles W. Roberts for Governor. All efforts to induce the present Republican Governor (Chamberlain) to accept the nomination failed. The election will take place on the 12th September.

THE TERRITORIES

The Cedar Creek mines, says a Helena paper, are yielding on an average, $6 per day; the best are paying $40 per day to the man. About 1 200 men are now in the camp.

An enthusiastic German meeting was held at Walla Walla a few days ago and a Club was organized to raise a fund for wounded soldiers and widows and orphans in Germany.

The Walla Walla Union says it don't wish the Olympia Standard any harm but it shudders when it reflects that Beriah Brown who is going to take editorial charge of the Standard has the reputation of being able to kill a healthy paper in less time than any other man on the coast.

A few days ago a violent thunder storm occurred at Corinne lasting several hours. The lightning entered the telegraph office at the Central Pacific depot burning the connecting wire and the instruments and scoring the walls and ceiling and making several round holes in the windows as neat as if done with a rifle ball.

Acting Governor Curtis of Idaho, has received a letter from the sheriff of Missoula county Montana, informing him that he has in his jail four men supposed to be the murderers of Allard the old Frenchman who was found with his head split open at Wolf Lodge, in Idaho, some time since. The names of the men in custody are J B Haon, L Mattouile, P Marot and P Tessey. They will be held at Missoula until a requisition is received from the Governor of Idaho.

A Montana paper has news from Yellowstone that the Crows have been driven in by large bodies of Sioux. The Crows, as usual were out on their buffalo hunts but were attacked by the Sioux and compelled to abandon their hunting ground. The Crows claim protection from the Government. Some seventy lodges of Sioux are on the river about seventy miles from the Agency and one thousand lodges at old Fort C F Smith. They have burnt the grass behind them and are driving the game before them. Col Baker says he will defend the Mission to the best of his ability.

CALIFORNIA AND NEVADA.

It is expected that the Sacramento ... feet rail road will be in operation in a short time.

The Central Pacific railroad company has sent the Superintendent's car to Ogden for the use of ex Secretary Seward.

Four car loads of seal skins the last of a shipment of 70,000 from Alaska went east from Sacramento on Tuesday last.

The Nevada Enterprise says that Congressman Fitch has recommended for appointment to a cadetship at West Point Willie M. Johnson son of Hon J. Neely Johnson.

The Sacramento Sportsmen's Club are thinking of getting up a shooting match to come off during the State Fair, which will be open to others besides members of the Club.

That part of the Pacific railroad in Nevada county has been assessed at $3 000 per mile. It cost $... 000 and the Nevada people complain that the rate of assessment is too low. The company applied for a reduction but the Board of Equalization would not change the figure.

The I... ... of Chicago notes the fact that two Eastern men have been buying native California horses in the vicinity of Los Angeles. These horses were bought at the rate of about $... a head and are to be driven to Salt Lake ... miles and are then shipped thence by the cars.

OREGON

Sales of real estate in Lane county are quite numerous and good prices are paid.

The Eugene Journal says that Mr Jesse Applegate has been employed by Surveyor General Applegate to ... and ... the public surveys of the State ... between Oregon and California.

Congressman Smith says the Eugene ... is the object of ... not the attorney of the capitalists who oppose the railroad interests of Southern Oregon who have publicly declared their intention to be at Salem next month with $100 000 to defeat Williams.

The Salem ... says that subscriptions for the erecting of the new M E Church amount to $15 000 which sum is one half the estimated cost of the Church. Besides the above the pastor C C Stratton has received assurances of assistance that will amount to between $3 000 and $4 000 more. The final success of the undertaking is thus assured.

The European delegates to the General Conference of the Evangelical Alliance to be held in New York in September will be prevented by the war from coming over. The Conference has therefore been postponed for the present year. This notice is issued under the authority of the Executive Committee and signed by Wm E Dodge President ... Corresponding Secretary.

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 23—Vega's pronunciamento in Lincoln is a complete fizzle. Gentlemen who arrived by the Continental say that he has only 30 Americans and 150 demoralized Mexicans with whom he is dodging around in the mountains, trying to escape from the country. The destruction of the pirate Forward was a death blow to his hopes. An expedition is being fitted out by the Government at Durango under General Corona to pursue him, and if he is protected by Loseda to bring that chieftain to submission. The feeling in all parts of the country seems to be strong against Lerdo de Tejada but not against Juarez personally. It is believed that the Government will not dare to shoot Negrette, but will give him some position which will ensure his adherence to the administration.

FUNERAL.—Yesterday afternoon about three o'clock the Washington Guard met at their armory to pay their last respects to the memory of their deceased comrade Z D Bones. When the hearse bearing the remains was ready to start, the company in uniform and with arms reversed formed in platoons and marched with it as an escort to the city limits on the road toward the place where the remains are to be interred. At the city limits the corpse was transferred to an express wagon, the company bestowed the last honors, covered the coffin with a national flag and delivered their charge to the afflicted father of the deceased. The company then returned to their armory while the aged father proceeded on his sad journey with his dead son.

One or two boys who had not attended Sunday school as frequently as they ought picked up a few copies for speculative purposes and rushed frantically down street crying out as usual with a view to sell and with some success too as now and then an anxious inquirer invested a bit without stopping to see what he was buying.

CITY.

GERMAN MEETING LAST NIGHT.

REMARKS BY GOV. SALOMON.

An adjourned meeting of the Germans was held last night at the Washington Guard Armory to hear the report from the German Sanitary Committee. The Chairman, Mayor Goldsmith, stated that the committee had collected in this city the sum of $573, but had not yet completed their efforts, and that the committee had great hopes of increasing the amount largely in a few days. Also that the Germans at Walla Walla, at their first meeting, had raised the sum of $700 which, no doubt, would also be increased. Gov. E. S. Salomon of Washington Territory, being present, was called upon to make some remarks. The Governor said that he had just returned from the East and did not appear for the purpose of making a speech, but was glad to find the patriotism of the German Americans on this coast equal to that on the Atlantic shores, and was also glad to find that the sympathy of most of the Americans was in favor of the Germans in this war; and the cause for this was, no doubt, owing to the sympathy Germany had given us during our struggle for the maintenance of the Union. The Germans during our war had taken over $400,000,000 of our loan, while France had aided the rebels with sympathy and advice, but had not courage enough to aid them with an armed force. They had courage enough, however, to attack a neighboring weak and bleeding Mexico. Napoleon had commenced this war upon Germany not for France but for himself and his dynasty. But after this war is ended Napoleon will not be Emperor, and the French people will be thankful to the Germans for it, all of which he, Napoleon, brought on himself by his action in 1852 in destroying the Republic. The Governor said, although we are not aiding our brethren by fighting with them, still these meetings are of considerable importance in cheering them on to victory. He remembered how he was in the war for the Union, meetings of sympathy had much effect in cheering the soldiers; and notwithstanding the fact of dispatches to the effect of the capture of King William, one thing was certain—that none of the dispatches had yet announced the crossing of the first French soldier over the German frontier, except as prisoners, and that with the entrance of the Germans into Paris the French people would be redeemed from the tyranny of Napoleon.

On motion, the Executive Committee was empowered to add three additional gentlemen to the committee, when the meeting adjourned with three hearty cheers for the German army.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.—Mr. Arnold Hague, geologist, connected with the U. S. Geological Survey under Clarence King, arrived in this city yesterday per steamer Oriflamme. He comes here to organize an expedition for the survey of the snow mountains of the Cascade range, in regard to topography, botany, geology, etc. Mr. King and others will arrive by the next steamer, and the expedition will start as soon as practicable. Mr. A. D. Wilson, Topographer of the party, is also here. Mr. Hague has engaged Mr. Isaac Buchtel, photographer, to accompany the expedition for the purpose of taking views. The objects of the survey embrace the obtainment of all possible information of every nature, concerning the snow mountains and the range from which they rise. From the notes taken maps of various sorts will be made for the use of the Government.

FUNERAL.—Yesterday afternoon, about three o'clock, the Washington Guard met at their armory to pay their last respects to the memory of their deceased comrade, Z. D. Bones. When the hearse, bearing the remains, was ready to start, the company, in uniform and with arms reversed, formed in platoons and marched with it as an escort, to the city limits, on the road toward the place where the remains are to be interred. At the city limits the corpse was transferred to an express wagon; the company bestowed the last honors, covered the coffin with a national flag and gave it in their charge to the afflicted father of the deceased. The company then returned to their armory, while the aged father proceeded on his sad journey with his dead son.

PORTLAND LIBRARY.—The following new works have been added to the Portland Library: "Lucile," Owen Meredith; "The Caged Lion," Miss Yonge; "Robert Greathouse," Swift; "Jealousy," Sand; "Mammoth Cave," Forwood; "Memoirs of the Court of Queen Elizabeth," Aikin; "The Vicar of Bullhampton," Trollope; "Queen Hortense," Muhlbach; "Put Yourself in His Place," Reade; "O. T., a Danish Romance," Anderson; "Leading Articles on various Subjects," Hugh Miller; "The Rob Roy on the Jordan," Macgregor; "Signs of the Times," Bunsen; "The American Colleges and American Public," Noah Porter; "Alaska, and its Resources," Dall; "Hayden's Universal Index of Biography."

PEALS: HERE'S A SELL.—Yesterday morning Messrs. Russell & Ferry got out an advertisement of their real estate sale, under the head of "Extra," and boys were sent around with them to various parts of the city. The public mind being excited on the war question, everybody took extras as a matter of course, seeing that they were distributed free. One or two boys who had not been to Sunday school as frequently as they ought, picked up a few copies for speculative purposes, and rushed frantically down street crying out as usual with a view to sell, and with ... success, too; as now and then an anxious inquirer invested a bit without stopping to see what he was buying.

DAN CASTELLO'S CIRCUS.—Mr. Peoples, advance agent of Dan Castello's Great Overland Circus and Menagerie, arrived last evening. He informs us that the circus will arrive sooner than was announced. The first show will be given on Friday evening, August 26th, at the corner of Third and Fourth streets. From that date, there will be a performance every evening, Sunday excepted, till further notice.

LINE DOWN.—It has been a good many months since any one has grumbled about the telegraph line being down; but yesterday the old tone was heard from all quarters. Nothing was received till after dark; meantime the news seekers waylaid ... and telegraph men on all corners, plying them with the old question, "Any news yet?" From the torments of "line down," good Lord deliver us!

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY, J.—Tuesday, August 23d:

John R. Lamb et al. vs. J. B. Smith, T. J. Carter et al.; decree dismissing the bill of complaint.

The Court adjourned to the first Monday in September, the day of the opening of the regular term.

ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday 23d inst., while Milton McMahan was at work in the loft of Mr. Wm. Lotz's barn, five miles from East Portland, he slipped from a box on which he was standing and fell headlong to the ground, a distance of seventeen feet, resulting in the dislocation of the shoulder joint. Dr. J. M. Mack was called, who reduced the luxation.

THE GATES TO BE SHUT.—Workmen were yesterday engaged in constructing a pair of huge gates to swing across B street, between Front street and the steamship dock. The purpose is to keep out the jam of carriages, drays, coaches, etc., which usually throng the dock on the arrival of a steamer.

A SAFE WAGER.—An enthusiastic and sanguine German, named M. Hamburger, posts the following banter: "I will bet $500 with any Frenchman that King William I of Prussia is not captured." It is a safe wager.

GOING TO THE FAIR.—It is the present intention of the Washington Guard to visit the State Fair, in uniform and with arms; provided the trains on the Oregon and California railroad shall be then carrying passengers.

LECTURE AT THE M. E. CHURCH.—People will bear in mind the lecture of Chaplain McCabe this evening. One important feature will be the songs of the Chaplain on the occasion, for which he is justly famous.

ARRIVALS OF SOLDIERS.—The steamship Oriflamme brought up yesterday a company of soldiers, sixty or seventy strong, who were sent immediately to Vancouver on board the Cascade.

ATTENTION.—Pioneers will meet for practice this afternoon at half past four o'clock, prompt, at the fire...

ANNIVERSARY PARADE.—To-morrow evening the Washington Guard will have a street parade in honor of the anniversary of the organization of the company.

ARRIVAL OF THE ORIFLAMME.

MR. MELVILLE'S BENEFIT.—Mr. Melville had a good house—full but not crowded—at his benefit last evening. The comic drama of "His last legs," with Mr. Melville as Felix O'Callaghan, was performed in excellent style; but it was as Mr. Peter White that Melville came out strong. His personation was extremely laughable, and we must say he was better supported by the rest of the company than has usually been the case on benefit nights. Vinson was all himself as Major Pepper, and it would be unjust not to say that Misses Annie and Minnie Pixley, Miss Ingloe and Mr. Clinton each acquitted themselves in a highly creditable manner. Mr. Melville's completed a series of benefits the most successful of any ever played in this city. The company under the management of Mr. Vinson has won its way to a most flattering prosperity.

COMPLIMENTARY BENEFIT TO MR. BATES.—We are pleased to announce that the members of the Dramatic profession in this city have united in tendering a complimentary benefit to Mr. F. M. Bates, the veteran manager and actor. This is richly deserved, and we shall hope to see Oro Fino Theater, on the evening named, crowded to its full capacity. Of all the men who have catered to the amusement of our public, no one deserves more highly than does Mr. Bates, and it is to be hoped that his past efforts to establish and maintain the legitimate drama in this city, will on this occasion meet with a substantial recognition.

REAL ESTATE SALE.—At the auction sale of East Portland real estate, yesterday morning, by Messrs. Russell & Ferry, three sales were made. The northwest and southwest quarters of block 153—six blocks back from the railroad and near the creek which empties at Clinton's Point—sold for $400 each. Block 189—one block further north and one block further east—sold for $1,500; and one of the remaining quarters of block 153 was subsequently sold at private sale for $400. All these parcels are very desirably located, and the prices paid are considered quite reasonable for the buyers, considering the figures at which real estate is generally held at East Portland.

BURGLARY AND ROBBERY.—During Monday night a burglar got into Mr. C. F. Wiegand's house, corner of Alder and Third streets, and stole $100 from the pocket of Mr. Wiegand's pants, which were lying upon a chair by his bedside. The thief left by the front door, leaving it open, without having awakened any of the family.

GOING TO CONFERENCE.—We notice that quite a number of reverend gentlemen of the M. E. Church are in town, en route to Vancouver, to attend the Annual Conference which will open on Thursday.

ON THE WAY.—The Oriflamme passed the bark Whistler at Oak Point. The latter was making her way up under sail.

FREIGHT AND MAILS.—The Oriflamme brought up about 600 tons freight and a small mail—five sacks.

Be on Your Guard.
The unexampled success which for twenty years has accompanied the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters provokes the envy of ignorant nostrum mongers in all parts of the country, and the counterfeiting business having been measurably played out in consequence of the numerous suits instituted against offenders, a new system of tactics has been adopted. In the South and West especially a legion of "Bitters," prepared from worthless materials and bearing a variety of names, have been got up by irresponsible adventurers with the hope of substituting them to some extent for the Standard Tonic of the Age. In some cases country druggists are the concocters and proprietors of these unscientific and trashy compounds, which are warmly recommended by the venders, who endeavor to palm them off in lieu of the great specific which has never yet had a successful competitor either among the proprietary preparations or the medicines prescribed in private practice. This notice is intended to put the public on their guard against persons of parties engaged in the attempt to substitute mere rubbish for the most efficient stomachic and alterative at present known. At this season of the year it is of the greatest consequence that no tricks should be played with depressed and enfeebled systems. Ask, therefore, for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the great vegetable invigorant and alterative, and reject, with deserved contempt, the worse than useless medleys offered in its place. It is as important to the public as to the proprietors of the famous restorative that this advice should be heeded.

SECURE A HOME!!

THE RIVERSIDE
HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION!
OF
EAST PORTLAND, OREGON,

IS NOW PREPARED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS to their Stock.

Application for ONE HUNDRED SHARES was made before the books were opened, and a large number of Shares have been taken.

The following extracts from the Oregonian and Bulletin will convey a good idea of the plan and workings of the Association, the location of the land, etc., etc.

RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

This association of whose organization we gave an account a few days since, is now ready to dispose of shares. As it is with one exception, (the Portland Homestead Association,) the pioneer organization of that kind in this city, it may be well enough to state what are its purposes, and the manner in which it is proposed to conduct its operations. The purposes of these Homestead Associations are not at all speculative in the ordinary sense of the word. They are dependent for the profits of their investment upon the natural advance in the value of their lands, consequent upon the co-operation of many individuals—shareholders—and the advance on values of all surrounding lands by reason of the expansion of population and demand for room outside of, but still near, the city. The Riverside Homestead Association has a fraction over one hundred and twenty acres of land situated just south of Brooklyn on the east side of the river, the nearest boundary line being about one mile from the ferry landing at East Portland. The tract lies in one strip along the Wallamet river, half a mile in length, and another strip along the Oregon and California railroad, half a mile in length, the two strips being connected near the middle by two rows of blocks (with a street between them,) the whole forming a figure not unlike the letter H. It is divided into 74 blocks, 200 feet square (with streets running at right angles) and 80 fractional lots, along the river front. The shares number 600, worth $60 per share. It will be seen that a share thus represents nearly a lot with an undivided interest in the 80 fractional lots. The 80 fractional shares are to be sold off at the proper time for the benefit of the Association, shareholders coming in for the proceeds in proportion to the number of shares held. When all shares are taken and the Association shall determine to do it, the choice of lots and blocks will be put up at auction to the highest bidder, the proceeds of such sales, after deducting the original price of shares or lots, to be divided equally among the whole number of shares. Thus, if a person wants a particular lot or block, and is willing to pay $100 or $800 premium (more or less as the case may be) he pays it and takes the lot or block as his individual property, the premium being divided among the whole number of shareholders. It will be seen, therefore, that everything is co-operative, and all interests mutual. No man can make a dollar out of it without also making a dollar for every other equal shareholder. There is no chance for loss, unless the property, by some chance, should depreciate far below the first actual cost. Whether this is liable to happen in the case of this particular tract of land must be judged by each for himself; but considering the steady and unprecedented advance on real estate in this city and neighborhood, and at East Portland and vicinity, for the last year or two, it seems hardly possible for values to go back.

In the Riverside Association all proper precautions seem to have been taken to guard against monopolies of shares. No person is allowed to buy more than the number of shares representing three blocks, or twenty-four lots, and votes determining the operations of the Association are restricted in the same manner. The buyers of shares may pay down $60 per share, which will exempt them from all assessments, or they may pay $15 quarterly with an assessment of $3 per share, payable with the first installment, being liable in this latter case to another (and only one other) assessment of $3 per share. Upon the payment of the shares in full, with the assessments as above, the holder is entitled to his certificate and his proportion of all the profits accrued from all sources. No officer of the Association receives any pay for services except the Secretary, who gets $25 per month; so it will be seen that the expenses must be light.

That part of the tract lying along the river is a high plateau, nearly level, about 60 to 90 feet above the water. There is no part of the front row of blocks but commands a splendid view of Portland and the river for miles up and down stream. That part of the tract lying along the railroad is, every foot of it, of the richest loam soil and adapted to gardening purposes. A beautiful little stream of pure water runs through almost the entire length of this wing of the tract, affording the means of irrigation, and power sufficient to supply pure water to every part of the whole tract. There is not a waste lot or fractional lot in the entire tract. Under all these advantages, it would seem impossible that there should be any chance of loss to shareholders. Within a year each shareholder, if he choose, may get a perfect title to as many lots as his shares may represent, or he may continue his interest, undivided, with the Association while the organization may exist.—Oregonian.

THE RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

We have been led to make these remarks from the fact that the subject of making homesteads on the outskirts of this city and East Portland, is being thoroughly discussed here among all classes, and one homestead—the "Riverside," just south of East Portland, has already been established. The site selected is a tract of land lying a little over a mile south of the ferry landing. It is shaped like the letter H, one side of which, a half mile in length, borders on the river.

From this portion of the homestead, which is elevated but a trifle above the other prong of the H, but is still forty or fifty feet above the river, can be had an extensive view of Portland, East Portland, the shipping, and the Willamette river for several miles. The land is very fertile, and is partly covered with light fir timber. A tract of land just wide enough for two rows of blocks, with an avenue between them, connects the west prong of the H (which has already been described) with that on the east. This last tract of land is in a beautiful little valley, which is now under a high state of cultivation. Through its whole length runs a trout brook, the water of which is clear as crystal. With a hydraulic ram the Association proposes to have water conveyed through pipes to every portion of the homestead.—Daily Bulletin.

DR. PIERCE'S
ALT. EXT. OR
GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY
This is the most thorough blood purifier yet discovered, and Cures all Humors from the worst Scrofula to a common Eruption. Pimples and Blotches on the face, and scaly or rough skin, which are such annoying blemishes to many young persons, yield to the use of a few bottles of this wonderful medicine. From one to eight bottles cure Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Ring Worms, Boils, Scaly Eruptions of the Skin, Scrofula Sores, Ulcers and "Canker" in the Mouth and Stomach. It is a pure medicinal extract of native roots and plants, combining in harmony Nature's most sovereign curative properties, which God has instilled into the vegetable kingdom for healing the sick. It is a great restorer for the strength and vigor of the system. Those who are languid, sleepless, have nervous apprehensions or fears, or any of the affections symptomatic of weakness, will find convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial. If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated and despondent, have frequent Headaches, mouth tastes badly in the morning, irregular appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only a part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects a perfect cure, leaving the liver strengthened and healthy. For the cure of Habitual Constipation of the Bowels it is a never failing remedy, and those who have used it for this purpose are loud in its praise. In Bronchial, Throat and Lung Diseases, it has produced many truly remarkable cures where other medicines had failed. Sold by druggists at $1 00 per bottle. Prepared at the Chemical Laboratory of R. The first Napoleon was the real modern [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible]. It was he that was the great economizer of minutes in the [illegible] of war and it was supposed that a military government existing exclusively upon the strength of its traditions [illegible] would have been a last [illegible] a conservator of time [illegible] in a [illegible] war. But it is the Germans now under their Prussian lead [illegible] who fully understand and utilize the precious value of time. While the present Napoleon was engaged in a leisurely way at Saarbrucken in the melodramatic [illegible] up to amuse the young Prince [illegible] amuse the Parisians as well [illegible] them, in a bulletin the important intelligence of Louis "baptism of fire" the Crown Prince earnestly engaged in the real business of the war was massing his army of [illegible] sixty thousand men under the shades of the Black Forest from which he suddenly launched it upon the angle of the French lines at Wissenbourg. While the Western World including England and perhaps France itself, were looking for a [illegible] at [illegible] on Prussian soil at Saarlouis [illegible] further on their attention was [illegible] suddenly to a remote part of the line and the [illegible] of Wissenbourg and a few obscure French villages spring into importance just as Pittsburg Landing, Antietam, Gettysburg, Five Forks and Appomattox did in our own war. Werth and Niederbrun, two villages in a valley of the Vosges Mountains hitherto almost unknown, will hereafter live in history as the place in French territory where the army of Napoleon III on its march for the invasion of Germany was suddenly defeated and [illegible] back into the interior of France for the protection of Paris.

Von Moltke seems to have foreseen that the French operations on the river Saar were merely diversions that the presence of the Emperor at Metz and St Avold and Saarbrucken was a blind and that the real attempt to penetrate into Germany would be made on the Rhine between Kehl and Carlsruhe where Marshal McMahon was with his African Zouaves and Turcos and the choice battalions from Algeria. It was no further back than Wednesday last that MacMahon surveyed the Rhine from Kehl bridge northward for twenty six miles, seeking as we may now suppose for the crossing which was to start his army on its march to Heidelberg, Darmstadt and Frankfort. But in this Von Moltke had prepared a complete checkmate, for, as if in prophetic foresight of MacMahon's intended move the army of the Crown Prince was on that very day in motion for Wissenbourg and on the next day commenced a series of operations which crushed intended aggressive advance and drove him back upon a line of defence in the interior of France, as the despatches have already told. This is utilizing 'minutes' according to the tactics of the First Napoleon. The war is now transferred from German to French territory. It is France that is on the proclamations, and not Germany—and the proclamations, printed in German, which were to have been distributed by the invading army in Darmstadt, will have to be laid by for the present.

As is usual in such cases there will be a great deal said in mitigation of this defeat by showing that an entire German army of a hundred and sixty thousand men was thrown upon a single French corps reinforced by a few divisions from another. But in so doing just this thing viz in launching a powerful force upon a comparatively weak point in the enemy's line, that the art of handling great armies mainly consists. The strength of an extended military line is no greater than the weakest point in that line and the break of it at the weakest point is usually of as much advantage as to pierce it at the strongest. It is in this rapid concentration of a powerful force at the right point and at the right time so as to command success, that the military genius of Von Moltke is demonstrating its superiority now, as it did in 1866 at Sadowa. The French troops, of course fought like lions, but both they and their great Marshal were outgeneraled and overwhelmed. It is clear that the German armies are under the leadership of men of supreme military sagacity and ability. The manner in which the French plan of campaign was foreseen and [illegible] at the right point at the right time, requiring as it did, the rapid movement of heavy masses of troops over considerable [illegible], demonstrates this more completely than the victories at Wissenbourg and Werth.

Prayer for Prussia—The Proclamation of King William—The Prayer Inserted in the Liturgy.

The Neue Preussische Kreuz Zeitung contains the following proclamation of the King of Prussia in reference to the day set apart for Prayer:

I am compelled to draw the sword in consequence of a wanton attack which must be warded off with all the strength at the command of Germany. It is a great consolation to me, before God and man, that I have not in any way given occasion for the onslaught. My conscience is clear as to the origin of this war, and I am confident before God of the justice of our cause. The conflict is earnest and it will entail heavy sacrifices on my people, and on Germany at large. But I depart for war looking up to an all-knowing God and appealing to His all powerful help. Already I have occasion to thank God that at the first whisper of war all German hearts were animated by one feeling—a feeling of indignation at the attack, and of glad trustfulness that God would grant victory to the right cause. My people in this conflict will stand by me as it stood by my father who now rests in God. With me they will make any sacrifices to restore peace to the nations. From my youth I have learnt to confide in the omnipotence of God's gracious help. In Him I hope and I call on my people to have the like confidence in Him. I bow before God in acknowledgment of His mercy and I am convinced that my subjects and my countrymen will do likewise. For this reason I appoint that Wednesday, the 27th of July be kept as an extraordinary general day of prayer when divine service shall be celebrated in the churches and public business shall be suspended in so far as the pressing necessity of the times shall permit. I also appoint that during the continuance of the war in every public Divine service, prayers shall be offered up that God may lead us to victory that He may make us merciful even to our enemies, and that He may graciously conduct us to a peace that will secure the honor and the lasting independence of Germany.

BERLIN, July 21 1870. WILLIAM

The Evangelischer Kirch[illegible] in promulgating the above proclamation adds the King's command, that on Sunday the 31st in all public services the following prayer shall be inserted in the Liturgy:

Almighty and merciful God! Lord of hosts! we beseech Thee for thy [illegible] powerful succor for our German Fatherland. Go to war with the German armies, and bless their weapons that they may overcome the enemy. Lead us to victory and grant us mercy that we may show ourselves to be Christians even to our enemies. Let us soon make peace that will securely guarantee the honor and independence of Germany. Be the strong protection and defense of our German Fatherland.

The Augusta Constitutionalist is informed by a gentleman who has recently returned to Georgia from a Northern tour, that Gen Frank Blair bitterly regrets having fought against the South during the war and would give his right arm if he could recall the past. Gen Blair belongs to that wing of the Democracy which believes in keeping up the struggle between the North and South on reconstruction and the negro, believing them to be the live issues, and dissents from the policy of a captain [illegible] put forward by the New York [illegible] and Chicago Times.

SAVE THE BONES—Every farmer should provide a barrel or box for receiving chicken bones fish bones, and bits of beef bones which accumulate in the kitchen. A hundred pounds may be saved in a few weeks. Such bones are more valuable for burying at [illegible] all kinds of fruit trees and grape vines, than Peruvian guano which is worth from three to five cents per pound.

A Visit to Mr Seward

[illegible] AND [illegible]

A correspondent sends to the New York Standard an account of a visit to Mr Seward's home in Auburn [illegible]

[illegible] the grounds on the [illegible] to the house [illegible] hairs of which we have had [illegible] Mr Seward [illegible] with [illegible] himself with [illegible] [illegible] years ago.

How long do you propose to stay in the [illegible]

I cannot tell. Travel is like my other business. The extent of my journey and the exact route of my travels can only be determined upon the [illegible] I shall start on the [illegible] of August [illegible] my [illegible] that I should cross the Rocky Mountains before winter sets in and besides it is necessary that I should return from [illegible] to the [illegible] before the river freezes over, just as I would wish to go from here to Washington for the winter before navigation [illegible] Had [illegible]

While hearing Mr Seward talk in this confident way about undertaking a journey that few young men would undertake, with all hesitation I could not but look curiously at the vigorous old man who was talking to me. A strong soul I felt must be encased in that vigorous frame. He is now in the seventieth year of his age. More than thirty years ago he was Governor of New York. It is only six years since when [illegible] his bed by being thrown from his carriage the assassin [illegible] strove [illegible] the life of many a young man. Yet [illegible] he was ready to forsake the comforts and luxuries [illegible] of dignified retirement for which he must have often sighed to verify in his old age the political philosophy which has guided his life but was not fully developed until the last year of Johnson's administration.

Starting up Mr Seward asked me to walk with him to the house. Said he there I can give the full object of my visit in a nutshell. When we reached his reading room he took down a book sent him by the author and which has just been published, and pointing to an extract from a speech made by him in the United States Senate, July 29th 1852 he declared that in those few words was a key to the whole journey. I saw in them also the key of his Alaska and West India policy. The book was by the Rev William Speer, the Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Education, formerly a missionary to China and the Chinese in California. It is called China and the United States and affords Mr Seward much satisfaction as an able and elaborate working out of the text which he laid down nearly twenty years ago and which he had himself forgotten though it contained the germ of his own policy as well as it served for the motto of this book. That man said Mr Seward, 'has taken up a text which I had forgotten, and upon it he has built a good work.' In the extract Mr Seward who was speaking of the commerce of the Pacific coast declared that our European commerce and connections would sink into insignificance while the Pacific ocean its shores and islands, and the regions beyond would become the chief theater of events in the world's history. It is only twenty years since these words were uttered as a prophecy but in these twenty years much has happened to show their truthfulness.

Mr Seward may extend his journey as far as [illegible]. The present trip is only the carrying out of the journey purposed by him when he made his visit to California and Alaska last year but was diverted to Mexico instead of continuing on to the westward until he reached the East. Now he intends to finish his work that is all.

The French Occupation of Rome

ULTRAMONTANE VIEWS

The Paris Monde (Ultramontane) of July 18, makes the following comments on the contemplated evacuation of Rome:

To abandon Rome to-day would be to certainly deliver it to the revolution to repudiate the policy followed for 20 years and to sell the Vicar of Jesus Christ for a price scarcely above the 30 pieces of the Gospel. Those who believe the French Government capable of this infamy do injustice to its foresight, as well as to its probity. Is it about to select the present moment to inspire alarm in Catholic consciences and create a fear that a war commenced by treason is not to terminate gloriously for our flag? Napoleon I also at a certain period of his history sacrificed the temporal power to his policy, some time after the Spanish war broke out, which was the first of the reverses of the Empire, and the prelude of the Russian campaign. These great examples remained engraved in the minds of the people and there is no fear that at so short a distance they will be forgotten.

Beside the alliance of Italy purchased on this condition would weaken the government within more than it would fortify it without, because it would break the bonds which attach it to a party in France and like a tree without roots it would fall at the first shock. It is even making little of Italian honor to make at this hour such a calculation, it is to make of Italo a political free lance, offering his sword for sale to all Europe fighting against Austria to have Venetia against France to have Rome. France has made her armed her, and admitted her among nations. Its matters not; all these recollections are not to be weighed as equal to a single city. If Italy was capable of this ingratitude she would be as dangerous for her allies as for her adversaries, and in that case it would be in order not to recall our army of occupation but to double it.

LONDON STUPIDITY. The Cornhill Magazine says:

Our English stupidity in short [illegible] serves a convenient twilight. It hangs like a fog over contending armies, which enables the rival commands to shift their positions and gradually to occupy important positions without giving the alarm. Before we are aware that any change has been made we have undergone a complete revolution, and wonder when we look back, like a man who has been walking in the mist and described a complete circle under the impression that he was following a straight line. But this service great as it is is only one we owe to stupidity. It is generally said, and with a certain degree of truth, that men are great in proportion as they are in advance of their age, and catch distinct glimpses of the goal to which things are tending. But it is also to be observed that fools are frequently in advance of their age and that fools often make the best reformers of the age. Great thinkers have for the most part, the weakness that they can see two sides to a question, but they cannot overlook the evils with which those blessings will be accompanied. [illegible] now a good thing [illegible] fools, in such occasions of [illegible] stimulable value. We are accustomed to boast that as a nation we do not know when we are beaten taken literally that [illegible] national glorification [illegible] boasting of stupidity and if the facts be true it is a very legitimate boast. The Duke of Wellington whom [illegible] supposed to have profited by this quality is in some respects an excellent example of the principle. He was not precisely stupid but no man who can fairly be called great or had a narrower escape from stupidity. With certain talents he had one characteristic peculiarity of fools—that of being provided with a pair of natural blinkers, which compelled him to see only that which was straight before him and to take the narrowest possible view of his task. The stupidest of men could hardly have been blind to the real nature of the vast revolution in regard to which he played a conspicuous part.

They have opened a Merchants' Exchange in Lafayette, Indiana the Journal says 'It is now in full blast, and gives the following summary of the trade. A shot gun and a fresh milch cow changed hands on Saturday morning. A full set of upper and lower teeth and a bushel and a half of ripe apples will be offered this forenoon. Business is business.'

An Interview with Napoleon III

[illegible] with Napoleon III [illegible] remarkable [illegible]

I may [illegible] remark that I have known the Emperor for many years and have seldom seen him looking better. When last I spoke with him [illegible] he [illegible] haggard with a complexion [illegible] usually sallow and [illegible] Yesterday his face looked fuller [illegible] bright his cheek healthy. I will not [illegible] that after [illegible] he quired whether we wanted [illegible] He answered [illegible] wish nothing better than that I should be represented by the people of England as holding these views.

The Emperor after speaking with his usual quiet kindness upon some private matters turned suddenly to the political situation of France and of Europe. He said [illegible] this fortnight before the utterance of the Duc de Gramont in the Corps [illegible] which utterance has as it seems to me been so unjustly reflected upon by the English press. The [illegible] notion that war was [illegible] nor am I even at this moment, by any means prepared [illegible]. I trusted that when the Duc de Gramont had set me straight with France by speaking manfully as to the Hohenzollern candidature I should be able so to manipulate and handle the [illegible] as to make peace certain. But France has slipped out of my hand. I cannot rule unless I lead. This is the most national war that in my time France has undertaken and I have no choice but to advance at the head of a public opinion which I can neither stem nor check. In addition M de Bismarck although a very clever man wants too much and wants it too quickly. After the victory of Prussia in 1866 I reminded him that but for the friendly and self denying neutrality of France, he could never have achieved such marvels. I pointed out to him that I had never moved a French soldier near to the Rhine frontier during the continuance of the German war. I quoted to him from his own letters which he thanked me for my abstinence and said that he had left neither a Prussian gun nor a Prussian soldier upon the Rhine but had thrown Prussia's whole and undivided strength against Austria and her allies. I told him that as some slight return for my friendly inactivity I thought he might surrender Luxembourg and one or two other little towns which gravely menace our frontier to France. I added that in this way he would by a trifling sacrifice, easily forgotten by Prussia in view of her enormous success and acquisitions pacify the French nation whose jealousies it was so easily to arouse so difficult to disarm. M de Bismarck replied to me after some delay, 'Not one foot of territory, whether Prussian or neutral can I resign. But perhaps, if I were to make some further acquisitions I could make some concessions. How, for instance, if I were to take Holland?' What would France want as a sop for Holland?'

"'I replied' said the Emperor, 'that if he attempted to take Holland it meant war with France, and there the conversation, in which M de Bismarck and M de Benedetti were the interlocutors, came to an end.'"

The Position of Paris in the French Military System

A military view of the security of the French capital is summarized in the following statement compiled from a French journal, which endeavors to tranquilize the public mind on that point:

"There are four routes, in a military point of view, which an invading army might adopt in advancing from Germany upon Paris:

1 By crossing the French frontier between Strasburg and Luxemburg, and then advancing in a direct line on Paris.

2 By crossing the Swiss territory situated below Strasburg, and marching by the valleys of the Seine and Marne on the capital.

3 By a movement from the north, passing the fortress of Metz and reaching Paris by way of the valleys of the Seine and Marne.

4 By advancing through Belgian soil in a direct southern line through the valleys of the Oise and Aisne on Paris.

The first course is regarded as a military impossibility, France being protected on the east by the great natural defences of the Vosges mountains, the Moselle river, the Ardennes mountains and the river Meuse, supported by many fortified places, among which is the stronghold of Metz. Dismissing then, any speculations which this route may suggest, we arrive at the second line of advance toward the French capital. If in this case the Prussians were to violate the neutrality of Switzerland and attempt to advance upon Paris from the southeast, they would find themselves confronted by the fortress of Lyons, which has been strengthened and rendered very secure since the period of the first Empire. Before arriving at that point the invading forces would have to capture either Belfort or Langres, both of which occupy commanding positions on the ground through which an army advancing from Switzerland should pass.

The third route is the most feasible, and consists in military phrase, of turning the fortresses on the northeast frontier, including Metz and then by continued successes arriving on the River Marne, from whence there is no formidable obstacle to an advance toward the immediate neighborhood of the capital. But an invading force could not on account of Metz and Strasburg, wisely adopt this course. The French army if defeated, could take refuge in Metz, and thence harrass the rear of the invaders, who would be open to similar attacks from Strasburg and places of less importance. The fourth route, by way of Belgium, is secured by defences which the reverses of 1814 proved more imperatively necessary.

The French calculate that even if an enemy should arrive in the vicinity of Paris her fortifications are practically impregnable. Thirty years ago, under the administration of M Thiers these defences were completed, the project being regarded with special favor by Louis Philippe, who took an enthusiastic interest in fortifications. Another resource is found in the population of Paris, now numbering 2 000,000, who by acting in concert with forces operating in the rear of the invaders, might overwhelm them. Such was the hope of Napoleon I, but, in the altered circumstances of his time, it proved impracticable.

THE CENSUS OF NEW YORK CITY.—We have census returns from 118 enumeration districts of his city, showing a population of 300 800. The average is 2 [illegible] to a district and there are 133 districts yet to come in. It is not probable that they will materially vary from the figures already at hand so we must be content with about the same population as in 1860—814 000. The World is crying out against the census as a fraud, and intimates that the population is vastly larger than the returns show.

It may suit the purposes of the World to insist upon an enormous annual increase of population but it is not true and the editor of that journal knows or ought to know it. There is one statistician who cannot be fooled with bogus ballots or repeating voters and that is Death. The death rate is a sure indication of the number of people. Now the whole number of deaths in New York in 1859 was 23 402, in 1860 it was 22 [illegible] in 1865 24 513 and in 1869 24 601. This is enough to show that the resident population of the city has been comparatively stationary that the census of 1860 was too high and that the figures now coming in will greatly disappoint those who look for a million or more of people on Manhattan Island.

The outcry of the Democrats about the unfairness of the census is simply without foundation. It is a cardinal doctrine of their party that nothing can be honestly done except by themselves and that everything they do must be right. The one census of this city most glaringly incorrect was done under Buchanan's administration by the once famous Captain of the Empire Club. We are sure that the present officers are honestly trying to do right. That the final report will show the notorious double and treble voting done by the Democracy to which the editor of the World has borne personal testimony is as clear as day light. Hence the outcry about Radical efforts to show a small aggregate. It won't do. We shall have a better and more complete enumeration this year than any one yet taken.—New York [illegible]
